International Security Option Application

NAME:	STUDENT #
EMAIL ADDRESS:	@uw.edu
GRADUATION QTR/YR:

General Information

The study of international security focuses on the relationship between politics and security and examines on the causes of war and the use and control of force: threats, promises, and the tactics, techniques, and ethics of violence. It teaches the theories and the historical context for understanding contemporary security issues.

The option is recommended for students interested in an in-depth study of international security. It is not an official major, minor or track, but an optional program of study. Students who elect this option must satisfy both the 50 credits required for the Political Science major (15 introductory credits and 35 upper-level credits) and the 45 credits for the option. Up to 25 credits may overlap between the Political Science major and the option. No more than 20 credits can be used to satisfy both the option and the requirements for any other major. Non-Pol S courses count only toward requirements for the option, not for the Political Science major.

If you complete the 45-credit international security option you will receive the notation International Security Option on your transcript after you graduate and a certificate of completion from the department.

Apply for the option when you have completed at least 6 courses or when you apply to graduate. The Political Science Advising Office is located in 215 Smith Hall. If you have questions, call 543-1824 or email us at polsadvc@uw.edu
