

About us:

Fuse is the state's largest progressive organization – people creating change online, on the ground, and on issues that matter.

Fuse interns work with some of the best campaigners and partner organizations on the top progressive campaigns and issues in the state and receive intensive hands-on training, campaign experience, and support.

About the position:

Successful interns will emerge from our program prepared to organize for progress. You will learn best practices in organizing, including

- Activist recruitment and development
- How to tell your story and engage others in your campaign
- Delegation and accountability
- Media outreach
- How to keep and use good data
- Basics of organizing

About you:

- Available a minimum of 8 hours a week, though more is preferred
- Self-motivated, able to take on and complete projects independently
- Comfortable in a fast-paced, casual office, and flexible when plans change
- Independently interested in progressive politics and advocacy
- High attention to detail
- Strives for excellence

Sound like you? Send a resume and a brief statement about what interests you specifically about this position and highlighting any past volunteer or paid campaign experience.

Please send all correspondence to jobs@fusewashington.org